RICHELLE B KAUFMAN WILL BE OUR SPEAKER
AT THE MAY 24 MEETING

As an artist my work tends towards fine art, contemporary realism, and figurative paintings. I paint portraits, still life, life drawings using charcoal, pastel, and oil. My training and works are in the classical tradition.

I was fortunate to have studied with the modern day masters at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Art and to follow the same teachings that Thomas Eakins and Thomas P. Anschutz put into place in 1876. This is known as “The Tradition”. It was through my professors that I received the encouragement and introduction to Frank Bender, in order to apply my background in Science as a Research Chemist to Art, in order to make a difference in this world.

I see myself not as just a realist painter, but rather as an “emotionalist”. My most recent paintings are attempts to understand and express my past in order to be able to open a door to my future.

I have a degree in chemistry and worked in the field of research until the early eighties. Then I studied anatomy along with medical students as part of my art training. I then began working in the Medical Examiners office in Philadelphia, at the time near University of Pennsylvania. I became part of the team of an Anthropologist Pathologist, as well as a Pathologist and worked in an art studio within the same building, but separate quarters. I also worked closely with an Anthropologist from the Museum of the University of Pennsylvania, as I had to approximate age, if full skeletal remains learn/understand the head structure of different cultures, how just looking at a skull could immediately give me information of the race, how I could identify if male or female as well as sometimes immediately being able to do a visual and understand the cause of death.

I was brought up in a household where both parents were very active in community, and recently I have discovered more about how my own mother was involved in the French Resistance, and how she as a French National came to meet my American GI father. I too am trying to make a difference by my choice of study, to bring peace to families who have suffered.
